Danny Throws a 'Block Party'

DANNY THOMAS throws a "block party" and the guest star lineup runs curb-to-curb on the Danny Thomas Special colorcast on NBC-TV Wednesday [8-9 p. m., channel 5].

The guest stars are Vic Damone, Sammy Davis Jr., Dennis Day, Jimmy Durante, Ricardo Montalban, Jane Powell, and Lawrence Welk.

Backing them are Myron Floren, Welk's long-time accordionist, Harper Mackay and his orchestra, 12 singers, 40 dancers and a townful of extras, complete with organ grinder and monkey.

THE DANNY THOMAS block is populated with Irish, Negroes, Mexicans, Ukrainians, and Italians. And around one corner, it also takes in the rural folk. Each group's star spends a bit of time with Danny before showing what his or her people can add to a block party.

Dennis Day leads a march of Irish music-makers to the tune of "McNamara's Band" and later sings "When Irish Eyes are Smiling."

Vic Damone bounces notes off the buildings to the tune of Italian folk song "Oh Marie" and sets the stage for Durante's grand entrance. Jimmy and Danny later join Damone in a trio version of the number.

On the countryside of town, after a rousing square dance that's strictly American, Miss Powell offers "It's a Grand Night for Singing." Montalban joins several dancing señoritas, then sings "Besame Mucho."

DANNY, not to be outdone, sings "People" from the hit musical "Funny Girl," then offers a sequel to his opening monolog.

Lawrence Welk, accompanied by Floren's accordion music, dances a Ukrainian polka, shows Danny how to do the same and finds him a pretty young partner to step out with.

Sammy and the dancers rock the block to the beat of "I Feel Good" before Sammy solos "Birth of the Blues."

Thomas, his guest stars, and the entire company unite for the finale number, "America the Beautiful."

ANN MORGAN Guilbert and Dick Van Dyke (made up as an aged magician) in a scene from the Dick Van Dyke special.

Dick Van Dyke on CBS-TV Tuesday

DICK VAN DYKE stars in his first one-hour comedy-variety special on CBS-TV Tuesday [7:30-8:30 p. m., channel 2].

On the program, titled simply Dick Van Dyke, the multitalented star will sing, dance, appear in monolog and pantomime, offer comedy sketches, and also play host.

COVER STORY

He will appear as a harried freeway traveler and as the oldest living magician. He will sing the wistful ballad "If I Were a Rich Man," and join the dance chorus in a surrealistic version of "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious." He'll range the musical scale from "Margie" to Bach.

Van Dyke's only guest star will be Phil Erickson, his former comedy partner with whom he shared his first opening night some 20 years ago. Van Dyke and Erickson will reprise some of their original nightclub routines.

The show will also feature Anne Morgan Guilbert, who joins the star in "The Great Ludwig," a comedy sketch about an ancient magician.

The Dick Van Dyke special is the first of three under a long-term agreement between the CBS Television Network and Van Dyke's production company.

The program is produced by Byron Paul and Jack Donohue and directed by Donohue. It was written by Pat McCormick, Ron Friedman, and Dick Van Dyke. Choreography is under the direction of Hugh Lambert, with music directed by Earle Hagen.

Legend of Marilyn Monroe

THE LEGEND of Marilyn Monroe, a biographical television portrait of the woman and the actress who, in her brief lifetime, became a myth and an international symbol, will be repeated on ABC Stage 67 Thursday [9-10 p. m., channel 7].

The program is narrated by John Huston.

Telling the story of the beautiful, enigmatic and fabulous MM will be Ida and Albert Bolender, the foster-parents with whom she lived for eight years; Harry Lipton, the agent who first discovered her; her first husband, Jim Dougherty; the director of the Actors Studio, Lee Strasberg, and his late wife, Paula; photographer Milton Greene; actor Robert Mitchum, and actress Shelley Winters.

Dear Answer Man...

WE HAVE a long-standing argument going at our house because I stated that the bartender on Gunsmoke used to be a violinist with Lawrence Welk. The whole family is laughing at me, and say I'm cracking up. Can you please settle this for us?—Mrs. Frank S., Plano, Ill.

Miss Kitty's bartender [Glenn Strange] IS an accomplished violinist, but he never played with the Welk group. In fact, Welk's office said they never heard of him. Sorry!

Can you give me some information about Jean Wallace? She starred in "Sword of Lancelot" on Channel 5 recently. I believe she was in my brother's class in Chicago's Austin High school—Ann L., Park Forest, Ill.

GUY WILLIAMS

JEAN WALLACE

RALPH BELLAMY

Well, Miss Wallace did graduate from Austin around 1940. Her name then was Jean Walasek.

We recently saw Ralph Bellamy in a commercial, and since then have been trying to recall the name of the TV series he had several years ago. Can you help us?—Mrs. Jean B., Des Plaines, Ill.

Bellamy starred in a detective series called Man Against Crime in the early 1950s. More recently he portrayed a psychiatrist in The Eleventh Hour.

Who played Zorro on TV? Has there been more than one actor in the role?—Danny C., Chicago.

Guy Williams, currently the head of the Lost in Space family, is the only person to play Zorro on TV. In the movies, there have been many, beginning with Douglas Fairbanks, and including such personalities as Tyrone Power, Jon Carroll, Reed Hadley, and others.

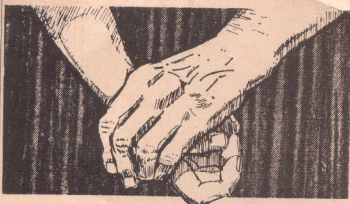

Perhaps you can answer something I have wondered about for some time. Why does Jimmy Durante say "Goodnight Mrs. Calabash, wherever you are" each time he appears on TV? To whom is he referring?—Mrs. Gladys M., Chicago.

Jimmy recently confirmed what many had long suspected. "Mrs. Calabash" is an endearing term for his late first wife, to whom he was extremely devoted.

I would like to know when my favorite show, Combat, first came on TV.—Tom C., Chicago.

Combat premiered on the ABC network in the fall of 1962. They've been fighting the war in Europe on TV longer than the real GIs did.
