Art Carney Stars in 'Peter and the Wolf'

By Charles Mercer

NEW YORK. Nov. 22 (AP)— For centuries the wolf has been the villain of folk literature, but now it seems that television is going to put in good word for him.

The occasion will be an hourlong special a week from tomorrow (Sunday, Nov. 30, 4 p. m., CST) on ABC-TV when "Art Carney Meets Peter and the Wolf."

THE MARIONETTES of Bill and Cora Baird will be featured with Carney as the only human actor of the Burt Shevelove production. Ogden Nash has written the lyrics to music composed by Paul Weston, based on themes from Serge Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf."

Basically the theme of the show is "the wolf trying to find a place in society," Baird said the other day in the Manhattan workshop where he, his wife and a number of assistants are creating special puppets for the program.

"CARNEY IS perfect for the role," Baird believes, "because he has a caustic quality that never becomes destructive."

Carney himself said in a separate conversation that he's enthusiastic about the role.

"Tm a typical, ordinary type of American guy in the show," he said, "I'm very relaxed, sort of like Bing Crosby—and I might say I'm glad I instead of him got the part.

"I'M A FELLOW who likes to take a walk in the woods—loves nature and never goes hunting. In my stroll I come to a clearing in the woods where I run into various animals portrayed by the Bairds' puppets.

"I talk with the animals and we do a little song and dance bit together and finally I run into the wolf. We talk and he keeps telling me that everybody has been given the wrong pitch on him for years, He's really not such a bad guy at all, he says.

"I MENTION the matter of Little Red Riding Hood, and he says she framed him. Then I ask him what about the Three Little Pigs and he tries to con me out of thinking that he ever molested them. Then we do a routine together."

Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" normally is performed as an orchestration accompanied by the narrator or a simple fairy tale. It takes 23 mintues to perform.

AT FIRST it was proposed to present it in its original form as a half-hour TV program. Then it was decided to expand it into an hour with original music based on the original Prokofiev themes and additional story line around the subject of the wolf.

Weston, a composer of many hit tunes, will conduct the orchestra for the show. Nash has written the lyrics only and the script for the program is by A. J. Russel.

OPERA STAR Rosalind Elias will be featured on ABC-TV's "Voice of Firestone" Mon. (8 p. m., CST).

LOVELY YVETTE Vickers appears frequently in ABC-TV's "Rough Riders" (Thursday, 8:30 p. m., CST).
